WHY INVEST IN THIS PROJECT

Our company is committed to three essential causes: water protection, social assistance, and biodiversity preservation. Together, we are building a sustainable and supportive future.

Engaging in social actions and human assistance is also in line with the United Nations' criteria for sustainable development. By supporting initiatives aimed at eradicating poverty, promoting quality education, ensuring access to adequate healthcare, reducing inequalities, and promoting social justice, we contribute to the global goals for a sustainable future. The UN encourages international cooperation and mutual assistance between nations to achieve these common objectives. By getting involved in social actions, we play an active role in realizing this global vision of a fairer, inclusive, and balanced world.

Single mothers who are victims of violence are in a vulnerable and dangerous position. They face physical, emotional, and financial abuse, and are often at risk of serious harm. By providing them with support and resources, we can help these women to escape abusive situations and provide them with a safe environment for themselves and their children.

In addition to protection and safety, supporting these women can also empower them to take control of their lives. Access to education, job training, and other resources can help them become self-sufficient and independent, which can improve their overall well-being.

Children of single mothers who are victims of violence are also affected by the abuse. By providing support to these mothers, we can help to protect the welfare of their children and prevent them from being exposed to violence.

Violence against women is often cyclical, with children who witness violence growing up to become victims or perpetrators of violence themselves. By supporting single mothers who are victims of violence, we can help to break this cycle and prevent future generations from experiencing the same trauma.

Ultimately, helping single mothers who are victims of violence is an important humanitarian effort. It is our moral duty to help those in need, and by supporting these women we can help to improve their quality of life, promote their overall well-being, and create a more just and equitable society.

PROJECT PRESENTATION

Built in 1932 as a hotel, the Castel Fleury Hotel was a furnished hotel for tourists until 2021. It is listed in the Regional Inventory of Cultural Heritage in the South Region for its architecture.

The two-storey building is in the regional style, with a corner turret that brings it closer to the architecture of Provençal castles. The presence of a Genoese, a false dovecote and railings made of hollow tile cladding make full reference to the regionalism and give it a notorious character.

This villa has been completely refurbished to become a shelter for women in pre- or post-maternity situations. These women are in a very precarious situation, victims of domestic or family violence, they are suffering from a lack of housing.

The residence currently accommodates 12 women aged between 22 and 49 and twenty children. There is also a collective part to exchange, recreate links and weave solidarity between the families.

The main goal is the reintegration of those women. A team of eight social workers is present seven days a week to help these women with their orientation, their mental health and their role as mothers.

Today, Montjoye would like to rehabilitate the entire villa in order to accommodate more women in precarious situations.
